Dear current resident:

RE: Adams County Regional Sewer District
Project #5

On April 14th, 2022, the District approved an additional local exemption from the mandatory requirement to connect to the Districts' collection system known as the Contained Sewage Low Flow (CSLF) exemption. To be eligible for this exemption, there can be no flush toilets in the home and an outdoor sealed privy vault must be utilized and the waste properly disposed of. A copy of this exemption policy and claim form is included for your information.

Individuals who are not eligible for one of the state law exemptions through the Adams County Health Department or will not apply for a local CSLF exemption will be required to connect to the Districts' collection system if a project is approved for financing and constructed in your area.

PLEASE NOTE: If the Adams County Regional Sewer District (ACRSD) approves a CSLF exemption for your property, this only means that the ACRSD will not require a connection to the District sewer system. The granting of such an exemption by the ACRSD does not affect the authority or a decision by the Adams County Health Department to require your home or discharging structure to connect to a District sewer system constructed adjacent to your property.

Sincerely,
ACRSD Board

The undersigned certify that no indoor toilets are located in the home or structure and only an outdoor sealed sanitary vault privy is utilized upon the property according to the eligibility requirements for this exemption. The outdoor privy is not connected to any outlet or septic system and the waste will be removed and disposed of by contractors licensed and or approved to dispose of such waste. The undersigned further hereby authorizes a representative of the District to inspect the property to confirm compliance with the requirements of this exemption.
